LOYOLA UNIVERSITY

Christmas supply work in the archdiocesan churches summoned practically all of the Del Rey Fathers.

On Christmas, midnight Mass was celebrated in the domestic chapel for the first time.

Father Lynch lectured recently at a meeting of the Pan-American League.

A generous benefactor has donated a set of Venetian blinds, much needed by the Library. New steel shelving is being installed by the Library for the files of chemical abstracts recently purchased for "chem. majors."

The series of Sodality Forum lectures given at Loyola High by Fathers Maginnis and Vaughan has been requested for publication by "Our Sunday Visitor."

"The Queen's Page," local Sodality literary venture, has received special commendation from Father Edward O'Connor, central secretary of Sodalities, stationed in Rome.

A recent letter of Archbishop Cantwell urges the faithful to sign pledges in a campaign against indecent literature. His Excellency's letter gives a special impetus to the pledge drive inaugurated last year by the local Sodality. Loyola radio lectures have been encouraging similar decency drives of late in Glendale and in the San Gabriel Valley towns.

An Experimental Workshop was designed and built by student members of the Radio Club during the holidays. "Remote control" broadcasts will be initiated soon with the presentation of weekly half-hour dramas. Scripts will be written by students. Other broadcasts continue currently on Stations KFAC and KMTR.

As part of an episcopal campaign, "Our Sunday Visitor" is publishing in book form, "A Symposium on Education and Democracy," for circulation among all Catholic schools and colleges. Msgr. Sheen, Fathers Gillis, Parsons et al., are the contributors. Father Vaughan of Loyola has been asked to write the preface.

A permanent altar is being installed in the rear of the stage of the University Auditorium. This will permit more frequent services for the student body.

Mrs. Ernest Beahm, who has helped much in the beautifying of the Loyola campus, insures further development by her recent gift of 200 additional rose trees.

During the first semester, two more of our students were received into the Church. About six others are taking instructions for admission.

On a recent trip East, Father Connolly spent some days discussing administration policies with the Dean of St. Louis University. Father attended the Executive Committee meeting of the college section of the National Catholic Educational Association; and was present during the two-day sessions of the Association of American Colleges, held at Louisville, Kentucky. Certain discussion papers at the latter convention were of vital importance to our colleges. One treated of academic freedom and tenure of teachers. Another concerned the extension of Federal Social Security Act provisions to private colleges and universities. It is reported that, for such extension and consequent taxation, amendment of the Act is to be sought during the present session of Congress.

The Del Rey Players are to give in Los Angeles revival presentations of their production, "Room Service," which had a successful three-night "stand" in the campus auditorium last month.

The University Band and Glee Club were asked to provide the musical interludes for the recent "pro" football game sponsored by the Los Angeles Times.

Father Edmund Walsh of Georgetown University was our guest during his two-day lecture series on "The European Situation."

Over 100 priests, 3 Monsignori, and 2 Archbishops attended the Requiem Mass

About 10 p. m. on December 26, the night of his death, Brother Daniel Danahy knocked on the door of Brother McCormick. He could not speak, but it was evident he was very ill. Brother McCormick assisted him to his room and called Fathers Rector and Minister. After Extreme Unction, Brother was rushed to Queen of Angels Hospital, where he died in an hour. Brother had been several weeks in the hospital in November and had asked to return home, as he had been feeling better.

Father McCummiskey replaced Father Ivancovich at Blessed Sacrament Church for a week.

Father Ralph attended the meeting of Jesuit Principals in Santa Clara.

SAN FRANCISCO

Father Feely substituted for the one engaged to give the college retreat in January. Each day talks were given to the non-Catholics by different members of the community and also by several laymen. Father Moore installed an attractive China Mission display in the students' reading room.

George Malley, our football coach, was engaged to coach a team of all-stars from the bay region to play against a professional football team in a charity game. Members of our squad were chosen for this game as well as in the Shrine East-West game on New Year's Day. One member of our high school team was selected to play in an all-city team against an east-bay all-star team.

January 20, Father Feely's talk at the Commonwealth Club's weekly luncheon was broadcast over KGO. "When we have a topic that you are all interested in," said the chairman, "and a speaker whom you all want to hear, then we have to put out the SRO sign. We have such a topic and such a speaker, and the SRO sign is evident." Father Feely's topic was, "Nazism: Brown, Black and Red." He also spoke at the Serra Club, a select group promoted by the Archbishop for fostering vocations to the archdiocesan seminary.

Our January hospital list ran into numbers: Fr. Rector, appendectomy; Fr. R. Burns, a severe cold; Mr. Rooney, a sprained ankle; Mr. O'Gara, flu. At the same time were included Fathers Gabriel, McFadden, Barnola (Argentine), and Hogan (Chicago).

The teachers' room in the high school has been refurbished with modern chromium chairs and tables.

The "Shine for 39" program has beautified the college campus. Big tractors and carry-alls worked for over a week, and the result is a very pretty piece of property. Everything is terraced and leveled from Parker Avenue to Masonic. The Masonic end has been leveled enough for two practice football fields and a baseball diamond. It is fenced in with cyclone wire fence. The parade ground has been enlarged. Red rock was poured into the field and into the many roads that will lead about the campus. In due time shrubs and flowers will be planted.

The elaborate crib inaugurated a year ago was erected again in the church this year. The statues are life size. The decorations and lighting effects were unique. The scholastics did most of the work on the crib.

SANTA CLARA

On January 3 Father Rector celebrated a Requiem Mass for Father George Butler. Relatives, former parishioners and friends were present, also some 30 of Ours.

A traditional student rally to stir up enthusiasm and interest in the "Passion Play," which requires the participation of a cast of more than 300, was held on January 18. Work on the casting of characters and on the scenery and stage effects was begun early in January.

Father Hubbard's lecture series in the East has been attracting large audiences. The most noteworthy lecture was given at Carnegie Hall in New York City. After the lecture Father received over 2000 postcards inquiring as to where and when his next talk would be held. Edwin C. Hill, noted radio commentator, was so impressed that he devoted two of his programs to the "Glacier Priest" and his northland expeditions.

Father Hubbard's Eskimo "oomiak," a walrus hide boat used in his last Alaskan expedition, will be exhibited at the Golden Gate International Exposition in San Francisco. The boat is now on the Santa Clara campus.

Father Hubbard plans to return to Santa Clara around Easter time and make arrangements for his twelfth expedition to Alaska.

Professor E. S. Albertsworth of Northwestern University has replaced Professor Leon Warmke on the faculty of the College of Law. Professor Warmke was elected secretary of the California State Bar Association, necessitating his withdrawal.

Some 40 secular priests besides our own Fathers, and a great number of Nuns were present at the Funeral Mass at Blessed Sacrament, Hollywood. The priests were thoroughly fond of Father Butler and stayed around for a long time afterwards talking about him.

At the Mass the Archbishop spoke beautifully on Father Butler, who had been his confessor for several years. Some of the priests said that they had seldom heard him speak so well. He dwelt upon Father Butler's piety, his simplicity, his love of the young, on the good he did in the diocese with the League of the Sacred Heart. He told how the children loved him and flocked about him.

It was a triumphal departure for Father Butler, one of the most loved priests in and about Los Angeles.

Before entering the Society, Brother Danahy was a computer on estimates for a building contractor in San Francisco. Very exact and careful about details, he was well fitted for the work of Assistant Procurator, and later of Brother Socius to Father Piet. He could expedite a marvelous amount of work in a very short time.

He always kept busy; his oft-repeated maxim was: He would rather burn out than rust out. He had a stroke in 1932 while Brother Socius, which made it difficult for him to speak clearly and gradually made him lose control of his left side. He still craved for work so as not to rust out. He was given the task of cataloguing and filling in library cards at Loyola High, so as to give him some occupation.

He had a good solid Catholic faith implanted in his soul by his mother; this made him resigned to whatever might come. He had a number of bad turns from the heart at the end, and was anointed several times. The last anointing was about one hour before the end. R. I. P.

Father Finnegan said his three Christmas Masses at an Orphan Asylum. It had snowed for a couple of days before and was bitter cold all Christmas morning. The chapel is of stone and unheated. The Father thought both hands and feet were going to drop off during the first two Masses at 5:30 and 7. At the last Mass the cold was not so noticeable. He was quite happy in spite of it all.
